Battles of Trenton and Princeton

Zoom Presentation on December 2, 2020 – 7 PM – 8 PM EST

The Order of the Founders and Patriots of America and the General Society Sons of the Revolution invite you to participate in an online presentation by the leading military and presidential historian Edward G. Lengel Ph. D. on two of George Washington’s most consequential victories in Revolutionary War – the Battles of Trenton and Princeton.

Dr. Lengel is a former Professor and Director of the George Washington Papers Project at the University of Virginia and a co-recipient of the National Humanities Medal for his work on the George Washington Papers. He is the author of George Washington: A Military Life, a finalist for the 2006 George Washington Book Award. His books have been honored with the Army Historical Foundation Distinguished Book Award, the Norman B. Tomlinson, Jr. prize, and other awards. The History Channel and the National Geographic Channel featured him in documentaries about Washington’s military and presidential accomplishments. Dr. Lengel recently joined the National Medal of Honor Museum as its Chief Historian. He served previously as Chief Historian for the White House Historical Association, Revolutionary in Residence at Colonial Williamsburg, and Senior Director of Programs at the National WWII Museum.
